

Training fees include resource materials adaptable for use with a number of different age and focus groups. These materials include the Teaching Parenting the Positive Discipline Way Manual, the book Positive Discipline, and a Facilitator's Manual and Workbook to lead a multi-week Positive Discipline class.

The "Teaching Parenting the Positive Discipline Way Training" is suitable for:

- New parent educators who want to develop tools, skills, and confidence
- Experienced parent educators who want new ideas and innovative activities
- Childcare and other early childhood professionals who want to apply Positive Discipline methods in their centres or classrooms and provide Positive Discipline Workshops for their staff and parents
- Family therapists, social workers, psychologists, coaches who want strategies for their clients or a format for parenting classes to build their practice.
- School personnel, social workers or those working in group home settings
- Parents who want an in-depth approach from which to apply to parenting practices
